

SECTION 6. LIBRARY AND LEARNING RESOURCES

Describe library and information resources general as well as specific to the program and staffing and services that are in place to support the initiative. If reliant upon other libraries, describe those collections and their relevance to the proposed program(s) and include a copy of formal agreements in the appendix. Relative to electronic resources, describe how students and faculty will access information, training for faculty and students in the use of online resources, and staffing and services available to students and faculty. If you are citing electronic databases accessed through consortial or statewide groups, please describe the discipline-specific suites of resources and not just the name of the consortium. For doctoral programs, document discipline-specific refereed journals and primary source materials.

Library and Information Resources – In General

No substantive changes in the library and learning resources available to University of North Georgia's facilitates interlibrary loan and GILExpress document delivery services. Information technology support services are on hand all hours.

Students and faculty may further access materials not owned through interlibrary loan through ILLiad, a web-based, self-service system.

Established in January 2011, the Copyright Center assists faculty, staff, and students in working and complying with copyright and balancing the rights of copyright holders with the exercise of fair use for educational purposes. The center maintains a website, holds workshops, and provides consultation services to offices and individuals working with copyright permissions. Also established in 2011, the North Georgia Digital Commons is managed by the library faculty and will continue after consolidation. The Digital Commons expands visibility and provides access to creative and scholarly work contributed by members of the university community.

The university libraries' electronic resources, like its collection of print book and serials, will be selected in collaborati bibliographic record counts.
